

Its name comes from the English words char (to char, to incinerate) and lizard (lizard).
Its Japanese name, Lizardon, is a combination of lizard and means tooth.
Its French name, Dracaufeu, comes from the words draco (dragon) and feu (fire).